The opposed DMMO for the addition of a bridleway at Folkton had been forwarded to the Secretary of State for confirmation, however, the Secretary of State has returned the Order to us, informing us that they consider the way the plan has been prepared renders the Order 'fatally flawed'. Regulations dictate the linestyles to be used on order plans, however, due to the inflexibility of early computer mapping software, authorities across the country have made use of alternative linestyles on plans. The Secretary of State have acknowledged that this has been happening but have now reminded authorities to keep to the Regulations, and are no longer accepting Orders that do not comply with the Regulations.
